

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

A method for providing a program which executes a sequence for handling a suspended task. The method includes the steps of performing a security check on a mainframe server. The program then detects a response
5 from the suspended task, and then monitors and handles the response. Finally, the program re-activates the suspended task with the response.